

Michelle Franklin, RN

Michelle Franklin is currently a medical professional, working with women facing challenging sexual health situations. She labors to provide information and explain options to empower them to make life-affirming decisions and create positive outcomes. As a committed Christian and prolife RN, she enjoys being able to offer hope to those women who seek assistance through our centers in Northern Virginia.

Australian born, Michelle lived on the Christian conference center in a rural community where both her parents served. She met her future husband while spending her senior year of high school on an exchange program in Colorado, USA. Michelle obtained a Certificate of Psychiatric Nursing, and a Bachelor of Nursing from University of New England, in Armidale NSW, Australia. She began her nursing career there, working for ten years in mental health within various hospital and community settings.

Michelle's marriage brought with it her first international move to Germany. She volunteered at her Baptist Church and the women's health center on base before orders sent them to the Pacific North West. It was during their assignment to Hawaii that Michelle was approached to take a stand for life and work alongside the prolife pregnancy network. Following training in limited obstetrical ultrasound, she began her role as Clinic Director/ Nurse Manager serving the local communities over the island of Oahu. She has continued to serve in a medical capacity since 2005.
